1 Tips for general use of the PULP style

- Use United Kingdom (UK) English
- The PULP style uses very little punctuation
- There are no full stops after abbreviations
- For example, US (instead of U.S.) v (for versus) (instead of v.) between the party names of a case
- Do NOT use auto-numbering
- Do NOT use auto-referencing when doing cross-referencing – always supply a separate bibliography for chapter and book
- Always supply ORCID number
- Always supply author's current affiliation when writing the chapter
- Line spacing 1½; font size: 12, indented quotes 10

2 Referencing to sources

- In footnotes (subsequent references): Heyns (n 2) (that is if that first reference was in note 2) 350 (no initial)
- More than three authors: in text and footnotes CH Heyns and others
- When referring to translated source: WD Ross (ed) The works of Aristotle trans DW Thompson (1910)

- The same goes for the title of a webpage
- However, the name of an interactive online database – such as the UN Population Division’s World population prospects: 2004 revision population database – is more analogous to a book title and should be italicised

2.10 Reference to emails/interviews

E-mail messages and telephone interviews should be cited as below:

- You may choose to ignore the reference to ‘Others’ and merely use the initial parties but be consistent
- Do not put case names and citations in both the text and footnote
- It is preferable to have the case name in the text and the citation in the footnote

3 Cross-referencing

Footnotes referring to earlier footnotes should lead with the author's surname (not their initials and surname as in the first reference) or the abbreviated name of a case or authorless policy document:

- Viljoen (n 16) 12-13.
- Grootboom (n 17) para 99.

In order to avoid redundancy, an exception to this rule should be made when the sentence to which the footnote attaches includes a reference to the author, case, or document. In such cases, the format below should be used:

- n 16, 12-13.
- n 17, para 99.

Note that a comma should set off the page or paragraph reference in this last format but not in the format above.

4 Subsequent reference to cases

First reference in text: In the well-known case of Grootboom v Minister of Housing (Grootboom case). Thereafter: The Grootboom case.

5 Footnotes

- No footnotes are to be used in summary

- Use '&' when referring to articles and authors (arts 1 & 2; De Waal & Currie; ...); use 'and' in full sentences
- Journals are not abbreviated – provide full title, eg not JAL, but Journal of African Law
- Authors: two authors, both names in full (&) with initials; more than three authors, use name of first author 'and others'
- When referring to earlier footnote reference, no initial: Heyns (n 2)

14 Use of brackets

17 Quotation marks

- Always use single quotes, unless it is a quote within a quote (then double quotes)
- Where a quotation is part of a sentence only, the full stop should be placed outside the last quotation mark, example: The judge said it was his 'duty to apply the law'.
- Where a passage from a quotation is omitted indicate this with the use of ellipses, in other words three dots with spaces at the beginning and end (eg 'cannot ... preserve') except at the start of the quotation.
- Quotations should be verbatim, including American spelling. However, avoid using (sic!) to draw attention to mistakes in material quoted. If the error is a typographical one, correct it. If the grammar is incorrect, interpose using your own wording between square brackets.

defence	defend	defense	defend
licence	license	license	license
offence	offend	offense	offend
practice	practise	practice	practice
pretence	pretend	pretense	pretend

22 Use of italics

22.1 Always use italics for:

- titles of journals, books, newspaper names, cases
- foreign words, unless acknowledged as part of English, and unless part of or in a quotation
- emphasis (... opinions on the compatibility of domestic laws ...) – add 'my emphasis' or 'our emphasis' in footnote (use sparingly)
- Italics should not be used for legislation and treaties

22.2 Specific words/phrases

- et al not et al
- coup d'état
- ubuntu not ubuntu

23 Other style guidelines

23.1 Use of foreign terms

- vis-a-vis - with respect to, in relation to, regarding, as for, on etc.
- If used, use italics: eg inter alia

23.2 Paragraphing

- The first paragraph starts aligned
- Subsequent paragraphs are indented
- Paragraphs under indented quotes are also aligned
- Top of page remains indented if paragraph should ordinarily be indented

23.3 Quotations

Quotes longer than 30 words must be indented (on left hand side, not on right hand side) (in font size 10), for example:

The challenge of building one nation and one economy in which all South Africans may participate and from which all may benefit remains a major challenge for the short, medium and perhaps even long term.

- Indented quotes do not have quotation marks.
- The footnote sign should usually precede the indented quote, unless the indented quote forms part of a sentence, which ends at the end of the quote; then the footnote sign comes at the end of the quotation.
- In quoted text, American spelling should not be changed to British spelling. The same goes for the title of a cited work. However, the name of an organisation should be spelled according to British norms regardless of how the organisation chooses to spell its own name. Thus, World Health Organization should be changed to World Health Organisation.

23.4 Spacing

- Article 27(2) - no space before (2)

23.5 Use of bold

- Avoid

24 Author AI Usage Policy

Pretoria University Law Press (PULP) has guidelines concerning the use of artificial intelligence (AI) in its publications, reflecting a cautious yet open stance towards the integration of AI tools in academic writing and research. Authors are encouraged to utilise AI responsibly, ensuring that any AI-generated content is accurately cited and that its use does not compromise the integrity and originality of their scholarly work.

Key points from the policy include:

- Transparency: Authors must disclose the use of AI tools in their research and writing process. This includes specifying which AI tools were used and how they contributed to the work.
- Originality and plagiarism: AI should not be used to produce content that would otherwise be considered plagiarism. Authors are responsible for the originality of their work, even when AI tools are involved.
- Ethical use: The use of AI must adhere to ethical guidelines, ensuring that AI does not perpetuate biases or produce misleading information.
- Attribution: Proper attribution to AI tools and any content generated by them is required, similar to how one would cite human contributors or other sources.

We do not accept any non-attributed AI (Artificial Intelligence) generated text in chapters or manuscripts for publication. The editorial board will use tools to determine if the likelihood of AI-generated content is high enough to reject submissions.

We have two categories of content that we apply to AI and content: AI-generated and AI-assisted. The definitions of these are below, based on the Amazon Kindle author policy:

- AI-generated: AI-generated content is text, images, or code created by an AI-based tool. If you used an AI-based tool, generative or otherwise, to create the actual content (whether text, images, or code), it is considered “AI-generated,” even if you applied substantial edits afterward.
- AI-assisted: If you created the content yourself, and used AI-based tools to edit, refine, error-check, or otherwise improve that content (whether text, code, or images), then it is considered “AI-assisted” and not “AI-generated.” If you used an AI-based tool to brainstorm and generate ideas, but ultimately created the text, code, or images yourself, this is also considered “AI-assisted” and not “AI-generated.”

- While we do not allow AI to generate substantial parts of chapters and manuscripts that we publish, we do allow the use of AI tools for creating setup code and data, but for substantive text and code that solves a problem or teaches a concept, this should be created by the author.
- Authors are free to use AI in the same manner as Google, Bing, DuckDuckGo, etc., but are required to write articles in their own words. Any content generated (including code and data) using AI needs to be attributed just like if you copied it from any other book or website.
- The use of AI assistance with grammar and spelling is beyond the intent of this policy. The use of tools such as Grammarly, Wordtune, etc., or the tools built into word processing software does not use other people’s work as a source, so these tools are fully allowable under this policy.
